ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

'TIS, 'TAIN'T.—An advertisement by the president of Brotherhood Trainmen, published in large dailies recently, reveals one of the weaknesses of organized labor in its attitude toward the public. Mr. Whitney, the Brotherhood's president, uses a lot of space to call advertising by the railroads a pack of lies. He attacks the roads' right to spend money to inform the public concerning the demands of labor. But never a word of rebuttal, never a concrete statement of WHERE the railroads have misstated. He follows the bad habit of 'tis and 'tain't. And that's no argument.

RESPONSIBILITY.—It seems that much of the blame, if there is blame, rests upon the Brotherhood's leader for the "plight" of railroad workers politicians. Railroad men privately admit that they would have shorter working hours if their leaders were not stupid—or worse. Not that railroad management can be absolved, any more than the unions can be absolved for their lack of truthfulness in presenting their case. ONE THING IS SURE—that if the Brotherhood's politicians wanted their men to have better working conditions, they could get the better working conditions. Many railroad employees must work seven days a week—and that's not exclusively the fault of the railroads.

DISHONEST.—Railroad management and railroad financiers are NOT without blame. If railroads had a group of transportation experts at work evolving plans and methods to develop reasonable working hours and conditions, and if men like Mr. Whitney would honestly sit down with these experts and work for the common good instead for selfish gains at the expense of the public, there would be no railroad problem. The trouble arises in that neither side is unselfish. Seems like a vast amount of thinking is not necessary to convince anyone that strife arises from two conflicting selfish motives.

UNTRUSTWORTHY.—Unhappily the public has been compelled to adopt the attitude that labor and management present untruthful statements about conditions. Union politicians, seeking to hold their own jobs through APPARENTLY doing something for their members, seem to be without conscience, and management surrenders its right to be believed when its whole structure of philosophy tends toward one-sided selfishness. Facts are concealed by both, neither having the forthright honesty to admit faults in some of its reasoning and offering to the opposing side compromises based upon sincerity.

A WAY OUT.—There will be a way out of the mess some of these times. It will not be palatable to either side. Neither will the public like it, but the public will be driven by the conflicting forces to adopt the plan in its own defense, for its own protection. That way is a law binding both sides to the finding of an unbiased jury of capable citizens. That may not be democracy, but it may be recalled that the Supreme Court of the United States, making a finding on New Deal legislation certainly repugnant to most of the justices, remarked, "Democracy has the power to build itself up to independence, and the same law permits it to destroy itself if it wills." Railroads and workmen should remember these words.

TIRED OF IT.—The American people are no longer going to be satisfied with anarchy in labor relations. Labor should remember that, Management should remember that, They will both suffer damnation, and right now they seem to deserve it.

Falls With Bottle In Hand; N. L. Man Has Serious Cuts

A bottle held in his hand while cleaning windows of his car inflicted serious damage to the hand of Paul Bachmann, New Lenox, early last week when he stepped from the running board and fell.

MOVE TO PEOTONE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Jeffries of Frankfort recently purchased a small farm at Peotone. They moved to their new home last week.

Opposing the release of James F. Lincoln, Jr., 31, of Stateville, on parole, Will County State's Attorney James E. Burke Monday wrote a letter to the division of correction department of public safety at Springfield, asking that Lincoln's petition for parole be denied.

Lincoln is serving one to 14 years in Stateville for assault with intent to murder nine-year old Carol Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, Maple Road, New Lenox township. His parole hearing has been set for October 28, the second since he was sentenced June 18, 1946.

The letter written by Mr. Burke opposing Lincoln's release is the first time the state's attorney has taken such a step. Heretofore he considered that his connection with a case ended after an individual was committed.

In his letter, the state's attorney said: "In behalf of the people of the State of Illinois and the people of Will county, I, as state's attorney, vigorously oppose his release on parole and trust that as a deterrent to crime, so necessary in the proper enforcement of law, it will be denied."

Lincoln is a son of a wealthy Cleveland industrialist and father of three children.

Mokena Man In Near Accident

Hugo Neithammer of Mokena, on his way going to Chicago Heights last Friday evening about 7 o'clock, narrowly escaped participating in a serious accident.

Mr. Neithammer was going east on Lincoln highway, approaching the Cicero road crossing, and a car from Indianapolis, Ind., was traveling west. A second westbound car followed, driven by Fred Stickle, 21, of Michigan, who, not knowing evidently that the Lincoln highway after crossing Cicero, narrowed down to two lanes, and he attempted to pass the car in front of him going the same direction, and came in between that car and the Neithammer car. The Indianapolis car was thrown into the ditch and the Neithammer car was sideswiped, crushing in the side and breaking the front wheel axle. No one was injured.

In the Indianapolis car were four people, and they proceeded on their way after being pulled from the ditch. The Neithammer car was towed to Mokena by Cooper & Hostert garage attendants.

Mr. Stickle was driving a 1937 Packard and had just taken the owner of the car, a Miss Brown, and her sister to California. The sister returned and Mr. Stickle had taken her to her home in Michigan and was on his return trip to California. He claimed he had a driver's license, but did not have it with him at the time of the accident.

The Packard was badly wrecked and the driver was held.

Part of Money Kept For Local Service

With the campaign well underway in New Lenox, Mokena and Frankfort for funds for Community Chest needs through the coming year, Frankfort Lions Tuesday night took action to assure the success of the campaign in Frankfort.

Following a lengthy discussion of the value of the Community Chest to communities, the club voted to take over the direction of the work in the village and to make the necessary solicitation to raise Frankfort's quota.

In the discussion it was pointed out that among the beneficiaries of the Community Chest, two orphanages, Guardian Angels and Lutheran, serve the communities by giving shelter and instruction to children who are neglected at home and become wards of society through juvenile delinquency.

While some other phases do not touch individual sections, it was pointed out that the Boy Scouts, among others, are beneficiaries of the Community Chest. Frankfort, it was stated, has no Boy Scout organization, while Mokena and New Lenox each has an active Boy Scout group. It was also emphasized that numbers of youth and young men in these communities have used the Joliet Y. M. C. A. to good advantage, and that the Y. M. C. A. is a beneficiary of the fund.

Under the rules of the Community Chest program, a portion of funds raised remain in the community, if requested, for local uses in line with Community Chest regulations.

Frankfort Man Dies in Sleep

Albert R. Baumgartner, 87, retired farmer and business man of Frankfort, died in his sleep Saturday night, October 18, shortly after retiring following an evening at cards with his son William of Homewood, who usually spent a while each evening with him.

Although not well, there had been no indication of approaching death, it was noted.

Mr. Baumgartner was born June 16, 1860, on the John Baumgartner Sr. farm and attended the district school on Marti road, which later was moved to Frankfort picnic grove to be used as a polling place. Not being required on the farm, the youth went to work with his cousin, the late Frank Baumgartner, in the latter's cheese factory. Later he became interested in stone masonry.

Married in 1881 to Catherine Schieferstein of Chicago, they lived on the farm for 35 years, when he entered stone masonry activities with his sons Walter and William, two of eight children born to the union. All survive.

Mrs. Baumgartner died in 1940. Survivors are Alfred of Virginia, Minn., Walter of Frankfort, Mrs. Floyd Lucas of Oak Park, Mrs. Edward Wunderlich of Joliet, Miss Augusta at home, Mrs. Martin Sippel of New Lenox, William A. of Homewood, Mrs. Alfred Zechlin of Frankfort, 20 grandchildren, and 22 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in the home in Frankfort at 1:30 p. m. to St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed church, the Rev. Eric Bizer officiating. Interment was in Graceland cemetery, Chicago.

SCRIPTURE: James 1-2; Matthew 25: 34-46.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Matthew 7: 15-27.

Religion in Practice

Lesson for October 26, 1947

SUNDAY'S lesson takes us to one of the practical Christian preachers of the New Testament. Please open your Bible to the Epistle of James, and read especially the first two chapters. James was a man of great faith, but he realized, as we must realize, that faith is best expressed in works.

Then read Matthew 25: 34-46, and for the devotional lesson, read Matthew 7: 15-27. When you shall have read these passages, you will then be ready for the consideration of religion in everyday life.

A Cup of Cold Water
WHAT, someone will be asking, can I do to show my desire to be of actual service, in the name of Jesus. Jesus tells us. He says that whosoever shall give a cup of cold water in His name is doing the will of God.

We live in a world that poignantly waits for a cup of cold water. I have just returned from another trip through Europe. I was there in 1946, and I felt then that life in Europe had reached the last possible expression of need. But this past summer I was startled to witness a still greater need.

The question that immediately came to mind as I observed conditions in Germany and England and other countries this past summer was this, What can we do to meet such need? And the answer was ready at hand—give them what you have, in the name of Jesus.

Doers of the Word
JAMES makes much of practical religion in everyday life. He tells us that we are to be doers of the word and not mere sayers of the word, or hearers of the word. And here he means the Word of God—the will of God.

Is there a misunderstood boy in your block? Is there a girl in your class at school who suffers from some bitter criticism? This lesson would suggest to every Christian boy and girl to go in sympathetic understanding to such neighbors and help them to overcome these handicaps. Thus we become doers of the will of God.

Living Our Religion
WHAT we are determines what people think of our religion, not what we say about our religious life. James tells us in Sunday's lesson that faith without works is dead. It is that very truth that our generation so much needs to get hold upon.

We have many perplexing situations in our world. Racial differences, differences regarding capital and labor, and so forth and so on. How are these problems to be solved? By resolutions? We know that many very pious resolutions have been adopted concerning these problems, but still the problems remain.

One Christian in any given community who applies the teaching of James to everyday life will start a train of events that will add up to the solution of any problem, social, economic or what not. We must translate our beliefs into action.

The More Excellent Way

JAMES goes on to assure us that when we undertake faithfully to live our religion, we may confidently claim the promise of God that if any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God who giveth liberally unto all men, and upbraideth not.

The conclusion of the whole matter, therefore, is to face life as we find it, taking into account the actual facts, and boldly and confidently tackling the job in the assurance that the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ is always sufficient for any and every situation.

The more excellent way of the Golden Rule is the answer to the whole matter. But the Golden rule is impotent until it is translated into action.

And the best of it all is that it actually works. When someone asked Morrison what Christianity was doing for China, he replied: "Christianity is changing China into a community of God." That is precisely what this lesson will do for your community, if you apply its teachings to life as you find it.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Newspaper through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Down Payments Discussed

Veterans service bureau has received so many letters complaining about the practice and growing tendency of many lenders to require down payments on purchase of a business, a home or farm under the G.I. bill that this entire column will be devoted to setting forth views of Veterans' administration concerning this "disservice" to the veterans of the nation.

In the first place, Veterans' administration is virtually helpless under the law since it places discretion of making any loan in the hands of the various banks and lending institutions.

However, VA can voice its disapproval of the practice since the law intent is clearly to permit veterans to obtain 100 per cent financing covering their purchase or construction of homes. VA points out that lenders who make a practice of requiring down payments on homes or farms, which in some cases run as high as 10 per cent of the appraised value, are:

- 1—Defeating the primary purpose of the G.I. bill;
- 2—Virtually inviting the passage of new legislation;
- 3—Rendering a disservice to veterans who have a right to expect 100 per cent financing where credit and other factors are favorable; and
- 4—Already new legislation is being considered which would provide for more direct loans to veterans in the purchase of farms;
- 5—If the price of the property is so high that security factors would demand a down payment, the lender would be doing the veteran a service not to make the loan at all.

So prone have lenders become in demanding down payments on G.I. home purchases, Veterans' administration has overruled a former policy not to name specific lending institutions when asked, and will in the future give veterans all information and direct them to lending institutions which are favorably disposed to making G.I. loans without the necessity of a down payment in addition to the federal guaranty of $4,000.

Veterans' administration points out that in the case of homes selling for $10,000, as an example, the federal guaranty of up to $4,000 is 40 per cent of the appraised value.

VA says:

"In any case where a lender thinks a cash payment is necessary from a security standpoint, particularly in the case of loans under $10,000, then that would seem to pretty clearly establish the fact that the particular property is over-priced and it would be a greater service to the veteran not to make the loan at all. These veterans' loans are not intended as a convenient conduit through which the sale of over-priced houses can be financed."

Pointing out the fact that the lender is guaranteed against loss up to $4,000 of the amount of the loan, Veterans' administration says:

"Assurance against the probability of loss of principal with regard to loans under $10,000 in particular, is afforded the lender by the combination of the cash guaranty and the physical property securing the loan. For example, in the case of a $10,000 amortized loan running for 20 years, based upon a reasonable value finding of $10,000 and which is guaranteed for the maximum of $4,000, the market value of the home, which is the underlying security for the loan, would have to decline to a point 42 per cent below the original amount of the loan at the end of the first year of the loan before the investor would incur a loss in case of default."

"At the end of the sixth year the market value of the property securing the loan would need to sink to a point more than 50 per cent below the original amount of the loan before the investor would suffer loss. It is difficult to see how within the foreseeable future such a drastic decline in real estate values could occur unless our economy experiences a depression of extreme magnitude."

Questions and Answers

Q. I receive $63 a month insurance payments for my son, killed overseas. May I obtain a lump payment of about $3,000 or $4,000 to purchase a home and have the remainder paid as at present?—A. M., Mansfield, Ohio.

A. No. Payment is made in the manner the insured designated. After August, 1946, the veteran was allowed to change his policy to a lump sum payment; however, this applied to living veterans only. You are not eligible for lump sum payment.

How to Successfully Grow and Care For Your House Plants and Flowers

House Plants Ruined By Faulty Watering

POTTED chrysanthemums are a fall favorite that bloom until near Christmas. They must be kept cool, and flourish best in an unheated room or sunporch.

Water only enough to keep them alive and in the spring start new plants by pinching off slips from tops of growing stems or using the new shoots around the base for slips.

Mums can be potted all year and planted outside in summer but during these winter months they need cool, moist air to survive.

You may want to know about preserving other indoor plants—cyclamen, primrose, cactus, geranium. Proper planting and watering for these and others are discussed in our booklet No. 29.

Jackson's Death

Stonewall Jackson did not die on the battlefield. The Confederate general was wounded by his own men on a reconnaissance during the battle of Chancellorsville on May 2, 1863. He died eight days later in a little frame house at Guinea Station, Va.

Boy Helped Solve Problem Of Bridging Niagara Falls

When the first bridge over Niagara Falls was planned in 1848, the problem of getting a cable from the American to the Canadian side was solved by offering $5 to the first person who could make a kite carry a string across the 800-foot chasm. After this had been accomplished by a boy, the string was used to pull over a small steel cable which, for several years, enabled persons to go back and forth, two at a time, in a little wire basket. The original steel suspension bridge thrown across the river just below the American falls had a span of 820 feet, and was long considered to be a feat of engineering.

NEW EVEREADY FLASHLIGHT BATTERIES

Now last 93% longer!*

Enough Energy to Hurl This Daring Miss Over 100 FEET!

Imagine!—the girl weighs 110 pounds! Yet the total energy in one tiny "Eveready" flashlight cell—properly expended—is equal to the charge that sends her flying up—over the gasping audience, to land over 100 feet away.

* To you, this means nearly twice the energy... almost two times longer life of bright white light. And it's yours for the pre-war price... still only 10¢!

PACKED with new dynamic power... dazzling in performance... durable beyond any flashlight cells you've ever known, "Eveready" flashlight batteries give you the year's greatest energy value. That's a 93% increase over the great record made by pre-war "Eveready" cells... nearly double the life of light. Yet you pay no more.

*Increases since 1939, from Department of Labor Index for moderate income families in large cities, and from National Housing Agency.

...our costs have gone up, too!

SOME PEOPLE get along under higher prices by using less or doing without. Some have more income to help meet higher costs. All can adjust outgo to income, to a large extent.

But a railroad cannot skimp or do without and still provide good, efficient and safe service—adequate to the needs and desires of the public.

The chart at left shows why the Eastern Railroads have had to ask for an increase in freight rates. The simple reason is that the increases allowed since 1939 are nowhere near enough to meet today's costs. The revenue the railroads get for hauling the average ton of freight is only 15% more, whereas the cost of operating the railroads has increased more than 63% in that period.

Only recently, for instance, an arbitration board added another $468,000,000 to our annual bill for wages and wage taxes, of which $187,000,000 is borne by the Eastern Railroads. This brings the increase in these items alone to more than 75% since 1939.

All the railroads ask is what the law says they should be allowed to have. That means just and reasonable rates. The law says there is need in the public interest for adequate and efficient railway transportation service at the lowest cost consistent with furnishing such service.

In other words, all the railroads ask is sufficient revenue to enable them, under honest, economical and efficient management, to provide the kind of service people want.

Some examples of increased costs since 1939, affecting railroad operation

Increased freight rates since 1939 have increased the revenue from hauling the average ton of freight one mile only 15%

William E. Fay

For the fifth year, Illinois' March of Dimes will be headed in 1948 by William E. Fay, Joliet businessman and civic leader. It was announced today by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The 1948 drive is scheduled for Jan. 15-30. Mr. O'Connor disclosed, and will mark the tenth anniversary of the National Foundation, set up by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to "lead, direct and unify" the fight against infantile paralysis. The March of Dimes each year is the National Foundation's sole support.

"Thousands," he warned, "continue to face a long fight for recovery. This summer, fortunately, we had a 'breathing spell' as polio incidence nationally did not approach the awful total of 1946.

"The cost of the 1946 epidemic alone will run to some $30,000,000, without taking into account the large sums necessary to care for those stricken this summer. We do not know what 1948 may bring, but we must be prepared."

Mustard Potato Salad A Hit for Club Lunches

An attractive platter of potato salad, cold cuts and deviled eggs will make a real hit at that next club luncheon, advises the Rural Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, one of the best known farm magazines.

For added zest, make the potato salad with mustard cream dressing, she writes. You can give it an extra tang, too, with diced raw cucumbers or crumbled fried bacon.

MUSTARD CREAM POTATO SALAD

6 medium potatoes
1/2 c. prepared mustard
1/2 c. evaporated milk
1/4 c. sugar
1/4 c. vinegar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 c. onions, chopped
1/2 c. celery, diced
1 tsp. celery salt

Cook potatoes in their jackets until tender. When cold, skin and dice. For dressing combine sugar, mustard, milk, vinegar and salt; beat thoroughly. Toss together lightly potatoes, onion, celery, celery salt and salad dressing to moisten. Chill before serving. Add hard-cooked egg if desired. Serves 6.

Public Right First In Labor Disputes

The right of the public to have uninterrupted production of goods and services must receive paramount consideration in disputes between labor and management.

That point is No. 1 in a set of basic principles of industrial relations adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Chamber principles further declare:

"The public interest requires that strikes should never be permitted against government, federal, state or local.

"Similarly, the right to strike should never be permitted against any service affecting the safety, health and welfare of the people until due precautions have been taken to safeguard the services upon which the community and the nation depend."

The Chamber subscribed to the right of employees "to organize and bargain collectively whenever such action is the result of their own free and uncoerced choice."

Ham and Bacon Stacks Offer Luscious Treat

"For a special luncheon there isn't any better dish than Ham and Bacon Stacks," writes Marjorie Griffin, Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"This luscious treat offers ham and pineapple slices rolled inside bacon, and in the middle of it all is a mashed sweet potato patty," she tells homemakers in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families."

CIO Seen As Center Of Communist Power

American Communists have been more successful in seizing power in the Congress of Industrial Organizations than in the American Federation of Labor, according to the report on Communist activity by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Noting that Communists have achieved some strength in AFL unions in New York and Los Angeles and scattered control elsewhere, the report adds:

"They have achieved real footholds in the painters' union, in the hotel and restaurant unions and in the film and stage unions. They are seeking with some success, to infiltrate some of the independent railroad unions and the International Association of Machinists.

"But their stronghold is the Congress of Industrial Organizations."

Reds Seek To Guide U. S. Foreign Policy

American Communists, in their efforts to influence government policy, have paid particular attention to the Department of State and foreign policy, it is pointed out in a report on Communist activity made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The Chamber's report notes that Communists work through various "fronts" and controlled organizations, as well as individuals, to exert pressure to bend government policy to the Communist Party line.

The report says Communists have succeeded in "driving many faithful public servants from the government" by attacking the State Department and by labelling certain individuals as reactionary and Fascist.

Contest Winner "Brands" His Prize

A pioneer of the auto industry, hunted throughout the nation in a contest to discover the oldest Chevrolet truck in America, turned up, appropriately, in the possession of a Montana homesteader. The venerable vehicle, vintage of 1918, was still serving Rancher Leslie A. Storey, of Jordan, Mont., whose ranch lies 18 miles from a typical "last frontier" town. The award for owning the oldest licensed and operating truck was a new Chevrolet

"advance-design" model, which Storey "brands" here with his distinctive Circle-Heart brand. It was presented to him by J. W. Burke, manager of Chevrolet's truck department, as Mrs. Storey and Montana cowgirl Merle Spears (right) look on. Nearly 7,000 old-time Chevrolet trucks were entered in the contest won by this vehicle, which was one of 384 built by the division in 1918, its first year of truck production.

Indiana and Illinois school children in 30,000 classrooms throughout Chicago Motor Club territory are receiving a daily reminder during October to "Keep from between parked cars." Supplementing this graphic message for the pedestrian safety of the youngsters are lesson sheets designed by educational specialists for the various elementary grade levels which the club distributes to teachers to aid in pedestrian safety instruction. The monthly posters furnished elementary school classrooms are prize winners in the national poster contest for high school students annually conducted by the Chicago Motor Club in cooperation with affiliated organizations of the American Automobile Association.

AND MORE OF US TO FEED

The American farmer has made wide strides forward toward efficiency in the last century and a quarter. In 1787, the surplus food produced by 19 farmers was needed to feed one city dweller. But today, according to the World Book Encyclopedia, 19 farmers can feed 56 city folks in this country and still export enough to feed 10

Uncle Sam Says

Millions of my nieces and nephews have gone through the experience of signing on the dotted line for something or other. In fact, signing on the dotted line is as American as the Army-Navy football game. This month Uncle Sam is Salesman Uncle Sam asking you to scribble your name on this payroll savings card where you work. You will note it reads: "Sign Up for Security!" It means exactly what it says. It will authorize your employer to save the amount you specify from your pay every payday for investment in U. S. Savings Bonds.

Sign up for security today. Then buy your extra Savings Bond. U. S. Treasury Department

In Copenhagen, Denmark, one out of every three persons is a bicycle rider, the World Book Encyclopedia discloses.

Communist Fronts Named In Report

Communists use an elaborate facade of "fronts" to extend the influence of the Communist Party in the United States far beyond the relatively small circle of party members.

Calling attention to this deceptive facade, a report on Communist activity made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States explains that the Communists usually do the active work behind the front of "honorary" names.

"Thus, for youth, the Communists have the American Youth for Democracy," the report says.

"To win over the Negroes, they have the National Negro Congress. In the field of insurance, particularly among the foreign-born, there is the International Workers Order.

"Other fronts, by contrast, are temporary. Such is the committee which in 1946 is staging the various 'Win-the-Peace' rallies throughout the country."

The report names as "one of the more prominent and apparently respectable fronts today" the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences, and Professions (I.C.C.).

"This group," the report says, "has been successful in gaining publicity and support which would never have been accorded to the Communist Party. It has enlisted aid from persons who would not consciously collaborate with Communists.

"Yet, the Party has claimed credit (in its 1945 New York State Convention) for founding the I.C.C. A large number of I.C.C. directors have participated in pro-Soviet activities. It is identical with that of the Daily Worker, the national Communist paper."

U. S. Industry Sets New Output Records

Given the chance, American industry can deliver the goods in record-smashing volume.

The tremendous productive capacity of American enterprise, demonstrated in World War II, is exhibited again in the production of civilian goods to meet unprecedented peace-time demand.

Since the ending of disruptive strikes in steel, coal, copper and rail industries last winter and spring, many industries have achieved new peace-time peaks in output in civilian goods.

Radios, washing machines and many types of electrical household goods are among items from re-converted industries being produced in larger volume than before the war. Steel, electric power and other basic industries likewise are producing in record peace-time volume.

Uninterrupted production at these peace-time peaks is the best assurance of supply to meet pent-up demand and to ease the pressure for higher prices.

Rising Exports Aid Farmer And Business

United States exports have been climbing this year toward a record peace-time annual total of about $10,000,000,000.

This recovery in foreign trade, and prospects of further gains as the supply of goods increases, is one of the strongest props for a high level of production and employment. Exports of farm products, particularly, are holding at high figures.

Favoring a continued high level of exports is the $30,000,000,000 in foreign exchange already available or in sight for needy countries from such sources as the United States credit of $3,750,000,000 to England, loans from the Export-Import Bank of Washington and the funds turned over by the United States and other countries to the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

During the four war years 1942-45 United States merchandise exports reached the unprecedented total of $45,000,000,000, reports the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. That total was equal to the combined value of exports in the previous 14 years.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Take Pen in Hand"

This column has been running for so long that its readers, in towns like ours all over the country, are beginning to "take pen in hand" and write us what they think.

Some of them take me over the coals for what I say—like the column I ran on planting alfalfa. Others write, "I liked your column yesterday, but..." All of them have different points of view.

From where I sit, that's the way it should be. Everybody's entitled to an opinion—and it's those very differences, and friendly criticism, that make for tolerance and better understanding—whether it's ideas on planting alfalfa or choosing between beer and cider.

The more folks air their differences right out in public, with a neighborly respect for the other person's liberties and point of view, the closer we are to the American principle of individual freedom—whether it's in a choice of crops or beverages.

Death is avoided in the protozoa, the tiny one-celled animal, by the division of the individual into two, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. Thus scientists have argued, the organism is in effect "immortal."

Artificial insemination, while considered helpful in controlling venereal diseases of animals, may actually serve to spread these diseases if it is carelessly managed.

Boss of the high "sticks"

Telephone linemen are hand-picked. A combination of skill, ruggedness and courage.

They specialize in tough jobs. They fight ice, wind, fire and flood. Sometimes, when storms destroy everything in their path and poles go down in a tangle of wood and wires, the linemen's job seems almost hopeless. But, somehow, their expert hands put them right again with almost incredible speed.

The lineman is one big reason why your service interruptions are few and far between . . . why we're able to bring service to more and more people all the time and constantly improve everyone's service.

This year, our linemen and their fellow workers are adding nearly half a million miles of wire to Illinois Bell's wire network . . . most of it in cable for better protection from the elements.

A $250,000,000 improvement program is bringing better telephone service your way

THE WINNERS . . . It was a daffy, record-breaking World Series that the New York Yankees, American league pennant winners, took from the Brooklyn Dodgers in the seventh and final game after "Dem Bums" had managed to square the count at three games apiece. The Yankees, who now have won the world's baseball championship for the 11th time in World Series history, are shown here in one of their more passive moods. The big baseball show reached such zany heights at times that a rumor started circulating to the effect that Olsen and Johnson were staging the series.

FOUR-YEAR PLOWING JOB . . . What once were two run-down hill farms near the village of Browns-ville, Ohio, now appear as an excellent example of contour plowing. Yet, the transformation was begun at sun-up and completed eight hours later. Task was undertaken by 600 volunteers, mostly ex-G.I. agriculture students, using 75 trucks and tractors. Some 40,000 farmers attended the unique operation held on the farms of John Rodman and George Latham.

INTERESTED SPECTATORS . . . What are these children looking at? Nothing that would call for a second glance in this country—just the changing of a tire for an American Red Cross field truck in an isolated area of western Japan. The villagers demonstrate a Japanese national characteristic which Americans often find difficult to understand. Told to remain outside a circle of twigs, they stood for three hours without entering the tire-changing area.

SCANDINAVIAN ADVENTURERS . . . Led by Thor Heyerdahl (left), Norwegian scientist and explorer, these men floated 4,000 miles across the Pacific on a 45-foot balsa raft to prove a theory. The theory: that the South Sea islands of the Polynesian group originally were populated by natives of Central or South America who floated there on the Humboldt current, employing just such a crude type of raft.

BEAUTY GADGETS . . . Not a visitor from Mars, this young lady is rigged up in beauty booties, mitts, facial mask and cap, all heated for enhancing beauty by stimulating circulation and inducing relaxation.

BING IN THE ROUGH . . . A new and bewhiskered Bing Crosby sips coffee amid tall timbers of Jasper national park in Canada after a day of hunting during his vacation.

Cheese and Penicillin
Roquefort cheese is made from sheep's milk; blue Roquefort, the domestic variety, is made from cow's milk; both are processed with mold originally found only in the Roquefort caves in France. The blue mold that gives Roquefort cheese its distinctive flavor and appearance is the fungus penicillium, the same mold from which the wonder drug penicillin is extracted.

New Typewriter Alarm
A new "alarm" for typists has been patented by a Detroit man. The device rings a bell before the bottom of the sheet has been reached. The invention makes use of a peripheral groove in the main roller of the typewriter which is normally covered by typing paper. When the trailing edge of the paper has passed that groove the alarm is sounded.

Alcoholism on the Increase

Oiling All Reels

NEWS FOR A PEEPER

By PETER LANGDALE

STELLA was as curious as any wife should be who's left her hubby by a note telling him he can look after himself in the future, because she's fed up with his bad temper when he comes home evenings, and that she's just about had enough of cleaning and polishing and cooking in a three-room flat for a guy who's got as much sense of gratitude as an undertaker has a sense of humor.

She was curious because she'd never done this before; she'd never had time. They'd only been married three months, and that's not really long enough for a girl to know all about what happens when a wife gives her husband the air in writing. She wanted to see how Bill reacted to that note on the dressing-table; whether he took it on the chin and went out to face the world, dauntless and wifeless, or whether he crumpled. She hoped he'd crumple.

Anyway, the best way to see a thing, she decided logically, was to go to the place where it was happening and keep your eyes open.

It'd been two-fifteen in the afternoon when she had written the note, and by three-fifteen she'd changed her mind a few score times, packed a suitcase with a few clothes, just for appearance, and closed the front door behind her with a firm resolution never to darken the threshold again until Bill went down on his knees and craved pardon.

Knowing Bill was due home at five o'clock, the thought occurred to her that unless she hurried she'd miss the show, and if she did that no one would forgive her, least of all herself.

The threshold was darkened once again as she entered the flat, but she didn't look at it that way. After all, maybe she'd been a little harsh with the darling boy; perhaps there was something in this jaded business man notion, or else why did movie magnates make pictures of them? And then the spectre flashed like a lively nightmare through her mind—there was a chance, an awful chance, that Bill would kill himself with that gun he'd bought during the burglar scare. He might even take to drinking his head off with his pay envelope, or put his head in the oven.

In fact, there were quite a number of things he might do, and Stella began to think she'd been led back to the flat by some Fate which had a personal interest in the destiny of young couples.

SHE walked into the bedroom and noticed that her missive was still there, just where she'd placed it on the dressing table. So Bill hadn't been back yet. She was in time to prevent disaster and that ugly follow-through about insanity which they always printed in the papers whenever anyone put himself on the spot.

Glancing around the room, the only place she could think of to peek from was under the bed. From this angle, by lifting the frills of the bed-cover, she had a ringside view of the note on the dressing-table.

She'd be able to watch Bill's reaction when he read the note, and then, if he didn't stage a horizontal but went to the drawer where the gun was kept instead, she'd jump out and do her stuff.

She crawled floorwards and wriggled her way into position. Too bad she couldn't have a cushion or two to help her get comfortable, but there wasn't space. The floor was mighty hard, and it wasn't possible to move much, because the underside of the mattress was so close; an inch lower and she couldn't have squeezed in at all.

Just as her pose was reproducing the first stage of paralysis, the front door opened and Bill came into the hall with a hearty "Hello, darling! You there?"

A few strides and he was in the bedroom. He saw the note and, squinting between the frills of the bed-cover, Stella watched him read it, peer at it, turn it over, and finally fold it away in his pocket.

There was dead silence while he stood beside the dressing-table staring blankly into space; deciding whether to use a gun or the gas meter, Stella supposed. She was all set to haul herself out the moment he made for the drawer where the weapon lay. Instead, he opened his wardrobe and, with a deep sigh, took out a suit—a good suit, which he put on.

Stepping out to discuss the problem with a friend, thought Stella, or maybe . . . maybe he'd make a date with a pre-marriage sweetheart! She hadn't thought of dames before.

But the horror of the idea was crushed out of her by Bill's weight as he sat heavily on the bed and changed his shoes. When he'd got the second shoe on he began to hum. It was a snappy, light hearted tune, the kind a man hums when his spirits are on the boom.

Anger welled up in Stella's heart. He wasn't in the least repentant. A hard, insensitive brute who could watch his quarter-year-bridal walk out on him like so much laundry. He had no feelings, and she felt she wouldn't care a hoot if he dropped dead on the floor beside her.

When he'd dressed she saw him, still humming, write something on the back of her note, fold it in reverse way, and replace it in its original place on the dressing table.

Then he brushed his suit carefully, fixed his tie straight, gave himself the once-over in the mirror, and went into the hall.

Immediately the front door closed Stella wormed her way out from underneath the bed and snatched at the note. This must be some kind of clue to his movements.

She read: "It's much softer ON the bed."

LET'S TALK ABOUT YOU
Charles B. Roth

BECOMING A GOOD LISTENER

He's gay, he's debonaire, he's popular, he's sought after for his wit and charm. Among his friends are many attractive young women. The other day he was telling me about how he evaluates the personalities in deciding whether to continue their friendship or not, for he is a critical judge of personality and apparently is a man who is hard to please.

My friend says that the one quality he looks for, the great quality of attractiveness in a human being, is simply that of showing interest in the other person and in what he is saying.

"Whenever I take a young woman out to dinner for the first time," he explained, "I begin talking. She doesn't know it, but I am giving her a personality test."

"I tell her of some experience of mine. I don't talk about things I'm sure would bore her, but I try to make one of my experiences interesting to her."

"I say something like this: 'I had an interesting weekend a couple of weeks ago. Some amazing things happened to me. It was really funny.' And then I interrupt myself. 'Is that draft bothering you?' I'll ask."

"Then what's the next step?" I asked him.

"Why, I wait to see if she'll ask what happened to me on my trip or whether she will forget it and talk about something else."

"Most of them ask you to go on, don't they?"

"They do not. That's just the trouble. That's why I say that the average man or woman misses a fine opportunity to develop lasting and interesting friendships by not taking a deeper interest in the other person and in what he is saying."

I think that this man has hit upon one of the most vital subjects in the whole field of improving your life—an expressed interest, a sustained interest, a lively interest in the other person.

If you develop that, though you may have none of the other attributes of charm or appearance, you will have a priceless aid in becoming more popular.

And if you want to see how few people actually have developed it, give those with whom you are thrown into contact the same personality test that this man described to me—talk to a person about yourself a little while, then interrupt. Probably six out of ten won't ask you to get back on the subject.

I'll wager that the four out of ten who do are the ones you like and respect the most.
